Good morning IS 201! I'm Venice from class 851 and I'm here this Talk A lot Tuesday on behalf of the SEAL Team.

Today is day dedicated to our pharmacists and the amazing work they do. You might not think about it, but every time you pick up medicine for yourself or your family, there's someone behind the scenes making sure everything is safe, organized, and right on time.

Pharmacists are like the problem-solvers of the healthcare world. They aren't just giving out medicine; they're helping keep us safe. They make sure the right medicine gets to the right person, answer all sorts of questions, and sometimes have to work under pressure. It's kind of like when you're juggling schoolwork, sports, and friendships all at once, but they do this with people's health every day.

Let's use this as a reminder to think about all the people who are there for us, quietly doing the things we might not always notice. Whether it's a pharmacist, a teacher, or a friend, showing a little gratitude goes a long way in building positive relationships. Maybe next time you pick up medicine or see your pharmacist, take a second to say thank you. It's the small moments of appreciation that can make someone's day better.

Thanks for listening and have Take a Second to Say Thank You
Tuesday 😊
